Association of Village Council Presidents - Repository and Administrative Building Planning and Design

State Funding Requested: $3,550,000*House District: 38 / S

Future Funding May Be Requested

Brief Project Description:

The project is to complete the design phase for a Museum Repository & Office building for the Association of Village Council Presidents.

Funding Plan:

Total Project Cost:	$3,550,000
Funding Already Secured:	($0)
FY2012 State Funding Request:	($3,550,000)
Project Deficit:	$0

Funding Details:

AVCP was funded by the Rasmusson Foundation for a $60,000 Foraker Pre-Development Planning Program Grant in February 2010.

Detailed Project Description and Justification:*Project Description

The project is the design of Museum Repository & Administration Building for the Association of Village Council Presidents (AVCP) in Bethel, Alaska. AVCP has completed pre-development planning and building design is the next step in the development process. The design cost is estimated to be $3,550,000. The design has two significant components: the Museum Repository must be designed to effectively preserve and present Yup'ik cultural artifacts; and the Administration Building must efficiently consolidate a broad stream of social services. At this time, two buildings hold all of AVCP programs and staff and the third is a small space leased by the Yupiit Piciryarait Museum. The two AVCP buildings are old and inefficient with very high operation costs.

Project Justification

The Association of Village Council Presidents (AVCP) is one of the twelve regional Alaska Native non-profit social service organizations providing a broad stream of services to villages on the Yukon Kuskokwim Delta. AVCP offices and museum are divided between three buildings that are far apart. Two buildings hold all of AVCP programs and staff and the third is a small space leased by the Yupiit Piciryarait Museum. The two AVCP office building are more than 25 years old and inefficient with very high operation costs.

Yupiit Piciryarait Museum

The museum space is too small to store artifacts and art properly and the collection is at risk. AVCP has a small space for the Yupiit Piciryarait Museum we lease from the University of Alaska Kuskokwim Campus. The current museum space is 3,800 square feet which includes galleries, storage and offices. The museum houses approximately 4,500 pieces of art, pictures and artifacts. Two small galleries displays the permanent exhibits of Athabascan, Cup'ik, and Yup'ik people of the Delta in ancient and contemporary times. The museum also includes a small processing room and a small storage room. There is not enough room for the existing collections and the collection is constantly growing. There is no room for exhibit preparation, education materials and classes for school children or for cataloging files.

The Museum is a repository for art, artifacts, photos, cassette tapes, videos, films, transcribed interviews, and letters and documents. The Museum needs to be an archive, able to both preserve items and make them accessible, so people can use them. The Museum must provide learning opportunities for people throughout the region, particularly Native youth.

Irreplaceable cultural knowledge is continually being lost forever at a faster and faster rate due to melting permafrost and erosion at old village sites near riverbanks and oceanside areas. A decision to preserve artifacts and information needs to be made right now before this priceless information is gone forever. There are many regional archeological sites of great importance and most sites are under threat; there must be facilities in the region to take care of collections if excavation, conservation, curation and study is going to happen. Archaeologists will only do this work if they know artifacts will be cared for and protected. The region needs a professional museum and repository facility with the ability to house and manage collections.

AVCP Offices

The two office buildings are not energy efficient, are costly to operate, expensive to retrofit and not big enough to handle the expansion of service AVCP requires. AVCP operates on programmatic funding. At this time, almost half of our budget goes to operate and maintain three separate sites. High cost of fuel and high electricity costs in rural Alaska have increased the need for AVCP services among low income families and increased our operating costs. We have less money to serve more families and the current situation is inefficient and ineffective.

Communication between staff and divisions is limited and there are costs of transporting staff and documents between buildings. We need more administrative staff to operate three buildings, more vehicles, and more travel costs between buildings for meetings. In Bethel, a cab ride is $6. For a staff person or a client to travel between two buildings, it is $12 round trip. Costs quickly add up. Programs overlap and benefit from close contact. Most of our clients and consumers live below the poverty level and the cost of traveling by cab between buildings is a barrier to receiving services.

AVCP provides a broad stream of essential services to 56 villages. All of our funding is programmatic. High energy costs and aging buildings mean that almost half of all funding goes to maintain, operate and travel between aging buildings. We are using funding that could be going directly to clients to operate, maintain and travel between energy inefficient buildings. The high cost of heating fuel, electricity and gasoline make the current arrangement inefficient and ineffective.

Solution

The solution is to construct a new AVCP office building and museum repository. A new building will protect museum artifacts and enable people to view items and experience all the collections our museum has to offer. A new building will consolidate services and programs making interaction between staff easier and free. A new building will lower operation and maintenance costs freeing up more funding for direct client services. One building would also allow for unrestricted interaction between AVCP program staff. Most of our programs overlap in some way. AVCP staff could be more efficient and better serve clients if it was easier to work together and share ideas.

Other Information

The Association of Village Council Presidents

The Association of Village Council Presidents (AVCP) serves 56 Alaska Native villages in western Alaska. Alaska was divided into 12 regions forty years ago when the federal government settled land claims. AVCP's Board of Directors is composed of the Tribal Council President from each of the 56 tribes. AVCP provides a broad stream of services to villages.

AVCP administers the following programs:

- Education, Employment, Training & Child Care
- Head Start
- Natural Resources
- Culture and Environmental Sciences
- Planning
- Realty
- Indian Child Welfare Act Services
- Social Services
- Temporary Assistance for Needy Families
- Tribal Services
- Tribal Justice
- Vocational Rehabilitation
- Village Public Safety
- Cultural Heritage Services
- Yupiit Piciryarait Museum
- Yuut Yaqungviat (Flight School)
- Transportation Planning
- Housing Improvement
- Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF)
- Workforce Development
- Childcare

Resolutions & Letters of Support

A resolution is attached from the AVCP Board of Directors seeking funds to create a regional planning team to plan and implement the Yukon Kuskokwim Heritage Center.

A resolution is attached from the AVCP Executive Board of Directors approving the planning and design of a new energy efficient Museum and Administration Building.

Honorable Senators Begich and Murkowski and Representative Young,

Kuskokwim Campus – University of Alaska Fairbanks supports the efforts of the Association of Village Council Presidents in seeking funds to build the AVCP Yup'ik Museum and Essential Services Building.

The current museum is in KuC space and is a wonderful addition to our efforts to offer a bachelors degree in Yup'ik Language and Culture exclusive to this campus. Resources and future materials for exhibits will need more space for staging, preparation and exhibition. This is a region rich in cultural traditions, knowledge and scientific potential. This effort will help tremendously the preservation and presentation of Yup'ik cultural artifacts and the consolidation of broad stream social services to one of the poorest regions of the United States.

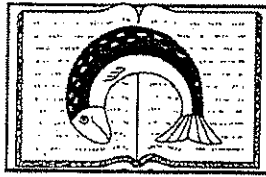

It is our sincere wish that AVCP receive the funds to build the Yup'ik Museum and Essential Services Building. Thank you for considering my recommendation.

Re: Support for AVCP, Inc. Funding Request – Yup'ik Museum and Office Building

Dear Congressman Young, Senator Murkowski and Senator Begich:

I am pleased to offer this letter of support for the request by the Association of Village Council Presidents, Inc. for a legislative appropriation to build a combined Yup'ik Museum and AVCP Office Building. Currently, AVCP, Inc. is housed in two separate buildings in downtown Bethel, and the existing Museum, operated by AVCP is located in the Bethel Cultural Center.

The Museum owns an extensive collection of artifacts, some priceless, and representative of the many aspects of Yup'ik society and culture. Only a small portion of the collection may be displayed at any one time and there is no space for conservation or even adequate storage.

This project would allow consolidation of the important services AVCP provides to its member Tribes and to individuals as well as housing the new museum and would create a new community focal point.

I encourage your careful consideration of AVCP, Inc.'s request for this appropriation.

Sincerely,

This legislative session Calista will be focusing on capital and operating priorities in the areas of: Energy, Transportation, and Education/Safety. While there are many needs in our Yukon-Kuskokwim area; we have chosen only the very highest priorities which we feel may help the most. I would like to request your serious consideration and support for the projects and items listed below.

Energy: The Yukon Kuskokwim area has some of the highest costs of energy in America. Calista, AIDEA, AEA, YKHC, AVCP RHA and AVCP have collaborated on numerous technical energy alternatives, demand, and potential capacity reports over the past 40 years. The latest effort indicates several hydroelectric options as feasible for the Bethel area that would address electrical demand in a 12-14 village radius. Next steps to finish Phase I are underway and include Public Meetings of Preferred Alternatives this spring. Requests for 2012 include:

a.	Alternative Energy Studies	Completed
b.	Nuvista Light & Power, and Project Consortium	Established
	Funding to oversee progress of selected energy alternative, design, transmission easements, and project management for 2 years
	Total Capital Request	$ 4.0 Million
c.	Public Meetings on Feasibility & Alternatives	Underway

This will finalize field surveys of the transmission line corridors, Hydroelectric facility initial design, and the permitting process
Total Capital Cost Request	$ 8.50 Million

*Future Request Total Estimated Cost = $89.0 Million* (no request at this time)

Transportation: The Yukon Kuskokwim area must rely on aircraft transportation access to the 50+ villages and 20,000+ citizens of our region. Currently, there is ONE certificated airport depended on to serve the region; it supports the largest airport numbers and communities in the entire state; and does not have full service or a dedicated airport manager. Most regions are served by a minimum of two certificated airports to ensure safety and provide diversion options. A complete state transportation improvement plan which includes this region is needed (nearest coverage is Alaska Peninsula and Kotzebue Nome). The state must do a better job providing road transportation access in this region. Public documents show requests for road improvements back to 1910 from the Donlin creek mining area for the historical wagon trail corridors used for supplies and mail across the valley to mine camps and the Yukon River communities in the old roads commission files.

1. Increased Bethel Airport Services, Capabilities, and Management Staffing	Cost	TBD
---	------	-----

2. Marshall Village Yukon River Port and Access Road from Port to Quarry
Rock aggregate is needed for airport and road projects in the Yukon-Kuskokwim region by ADOT&PF, and materials is of construction quality based on their '10 coring reports. There is no existing port in Marshall and a stable port site is needed at the rock bluff for material transfers out of the area that will both support the regions transportation system, be safer for the community, and help improve the local economy of the village with quarry jobs and cash.

Total Capital Cost Request $11.3 Million

3. State Funded Transportation Trust Program for Airports, Ports, and Roads
Cost TBD

Education & Safety: Calista region continues to need support from the state in the areas of providing basic education services and working towards putting a village public safety officer positions (VPSO's) in each large hub village. We feel this area can be assisted in continued support to AVCP through its services in the region, and in providing housing for VPSO's in the villages through state housing funds to the region housing authority.

1. Design for Administration Building for AVCP Services (includes VPSO support) and Region Museum

This request is to enable detailed designs for a facility in Bethel sized appropriate to the needs of the region-wide support services which the Alaska Village Council Presidents (AVCP) provides to the region which includes VPSO support and housing the region museum.

Total Design Cost Request $3.5 Million

2. Village Public Safety Officer Housing (10 village homes at $350,000. each)

Total Capital Cost Request $3.5 Million

Thank you for your attention and consideration to the requests outlined in this letter. Please do not hesitate to contact my office regarding this or any other matter that Calista may be of assistance to you.

Sincerely,

Subject: Letter of Support for the AVCP Yup'ik Museum Repository and Essential Services Building

Dear Mr. Naneng:

The Calista Elders Council fully supports the Association of Village Council Presidents' (AVCP) plan to acquire funding, and project development for a combined Yup'ik Museum Repository and the Essential Administrative Services Building to house all staff. This will streamline all the program divisions and services; improve energy efficiency, and the preservation of cultural artifacts.

Since 1964, we are aware that AVCP has represented 56 federally recognized tribes in the Yukon-Kuskokwim region, located in Bethel, Alaska. AVCP has been a successful non-profit organization for the poorest region in the State of Alaska for human, social and workforce development, education, public safety, and the enhancement of cultural relevant services.

With the high cost of utilities and energy, we are aware that the two buildings, Tugkar and Joe Lomack offices, are both aging and expensive to maintain. The museum that is now housed in the Yupiit Piciryarait Cultural Center requires more space to professionally preserve cultural artifacts and historic collections. All three facilities are separate from one another, which add to the cost of providing services and separates staff and clientele from closer networking and communication.

We are pleased that AVCP will take into consideration energy efficiency and renewable energy into the building design elements. We believe that AVCP can pass on its cost savings to tribes once this becomes reality.

Sincerely,

Mark John

Museum Needs

To our understanding AVCP, Inc is submitting a request for federal appropriations to construct a new building in Bethel for the museum and AVCP offices. Currently, AVCP is operating out of several offices in Bethel, and the Yup'it Piciryarit Museum has a small limited space. The current museum space is 3,800 square feet which includes galleries, storage and offices. The museum houses approximately 4,500 pieces of art, pictures and artifacts. One gallery alone displays the permanent exhibits of Athabascan, Cup'ik, and Yup'ik people of the delta in ancient and contemporary times. The two galleries are reserved for short-term exhibits that include some native collections. The museum is also a processing room and storage room. There is not room for existing collections, new collections, for staff, for visitors, for children or for cataloging files.

The Museum is a repository for art, artifacts, photos, cassette tapes, videos, films, transcribed interviews, and letters and documents. The Museum needs to be an archive, able to both preserve items and make them accessible, so people can use them. The Museum must provide learning opportunities for people throughout the region, particularly Native youth.

Irreplaceable cultural knowledge is continually being lost at a faster rate at this very moment. A decision to preserve artifacts and information needs to be made right now before this priceless information is gone forever. There are many regional archeological sites of great importance and most sites are under threat; there must be facilities in the region to take care of collections if excavation, conservation, curation and study is going to happen. Archeologists will only do this work if they know artifacts will be cared for and protected. The region needs a professional museum facility with the ability to house and manage collections.

The Native Village of Alakanuk is in full support for AVCP in applying for federal appropriations to build a new museum for the AVCP region.

Sincerely,

Benjamin B. Phillip

Office Building Needs

AVCP provides a broad stream of essential services to 56 villages. All of our funding is programmatic. High energy costs and aging buildings mean that almost half of all funding goes to maintaining, operating and travel between aging buildings. They are using funding that could be going directly to clients to operate, maintain and travel between energy inefficient buildings. The high cost of heating fuel, electricity and gasoline make the current arrangement inefficient and ineffective.

AVCP offices are divided between three buildings that are far apart. Two buildings hold all of AVCP programs and staff and the third is a small space leased by the Yupit Piciryarait Museum. The two AVCP buildings are old and inefficient with very high operation costs. The cost of retrofitting the two buildings was estimated at $330,942 in the energy audit but the actual cost to complete the work in Bethel will be considerably higher – most likely more than $1 million when the cost of shipping all the material and supplies is included.

Communication between staff and divisions is limited and there are costs of transporting staff and documents between buildings. AVCP needs more administrative staff to operate out of three individual buildings, more vehicles, and more travel costs between buildings for meetings. In Bethel, a cab fare is $6. For a staff person or a client to travel between two buildings is $12 round trip. Costs quickly add up over time. Programs overlap and benefit from close contact. Most of our clients and consumers live below the poverty level and the cost of traveling by cab between buildings is a barrier to receiving services. Therefore, we are in full support in AVCP's endeavors to apply for federal appropriations for a new office building in bethel Alaska.

Sincerely,

Benjamin B. Phillip

Subject: Yup'ik Regional Repository and Administrative Building

Dear President Naneng:

The Algaaciq Tribal Government supports the Association of Village Council Presidents (AVCP) effort to find funding to consolidate a Yup'ik Regional Repository and the Administrative Services Building to house all staff. This will streamline all the program departments and functions; improve energy efficiency, and preserve priceless cultural artifacts.

Since 1964, AVCP has represented 56 federally recognized tribes in the Yukon-Kuskokwim region, located in Bethel, Alaska. AVCP has been a successful non-profit organization to one of the poorest regions in the United States, for social assistance, workforce development, education, public safety, and the enhancement of relevant cultural services.

Tugkar and Joe Lomack office staff buildings are outdated, congested, inefficient and expensive to maintain. These facilities are separate from one another, which add to the cost of providing services and separates staff and clientele from closer networking.

The overcrowded museum housed in the Yupiit Piciryarait Cultural Center is too small for the growing extensive collection of historic cultural artifacts. Only a small part can be adequately exhibited, with no space for proper storage and processing. The region is rich in ancestral traditions, knowledge and scientific potential. With wide-ranging archeological sites, and many wishing to donate, a regional repository is necessary to secure it for future generations.

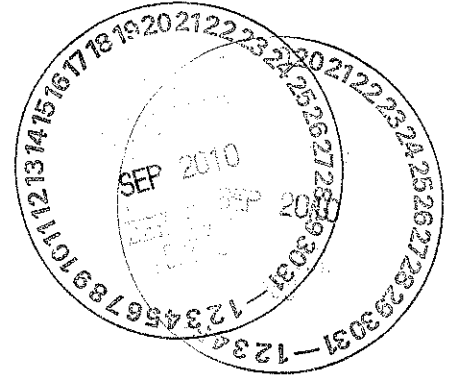

We are pleased that AVCP will consider energy efficiency by using renewable energy into the building design elements, including a repository the collections require. We believe AVCP can pass on its cost savings to tribes once this becomes reality.
